Date: September 22nd 2020

Webinar info: Link will be sent prior to event

Time: 1:00PM – 2:00PM ET

Credits: 1 CPEUs for RD/RDNs & PharmD

Cost*: FREE!

FEATURED TOPIC

Electrolytes in Older Patients

Presented By:
Diana Solomon, PharmD

See 2nd page below for speaker background & objectives!

TO REGISTER AND FOR MORE INFORMATION

Please RSVP by September 15th 2020 here
For questions about this event, please contact Jennifer Morgenstern at Jennifer.L.Morgenstern@medstar.net

Not a MSPEN member and interested in becoming one?
Email Patricia Brown, Membership Chair at pbrown57@jhmi.edu to learn how!

MSPEN is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization
Presentation Details: Electrolytes in Older Adults

Learning Objectives:
1. Describe the aging process and physiologic changes in older adults
2. Identify etiologies of electrolyte imbalances
3. Develop interventions to resolve electrolyte disturbances in older patients

Presenter: Diana Solomon, PharmD, BCCCP
Critical Care Pharmacy Specialist
Cooper University Hospital, Camden, NJ

Presenter Background:

Diana Solomon is a Critical Care Clinical Pharmacy Specialist at Cooper University Hospital in Camden, NJ, practicing primarily in the medical/surgical ICU.

Dr. Solomon earned her Doctor of Pharmacy degree from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, completed her first year of residency at Shore Medical Center in Somers Point, NJ and then her second year specializing in critical care at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy in conjunction with Cooper University Hospital.

Dr. Solomon’s research interests involve pharmacotherapy in critical illness, nutrition support therapy, and education. She is currently serving as the President of the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Society for Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition.